TEST.The mandamus proceedings instituted by W. J. Dooley and Phil Smith, to compel the County Commissioners and Clerk of the Board of the County Commissioners of Lincoln County, to issue certificates of election to W. J. Dooley and Philip Smith for State Senator and Sheriff respectively, and to rescind their former action of re-counting the ballots cast for said offices, whereby H. E. Freudenthal, and Jake Johnson were shown by said re-count to have received a majority of the votes cast for said respective offices, and the Commissioners having so declared and ordered certificates of election issued to H. E. Freudenthal and Jake Johnson, came up for hearing in the District Court on Wednesday last, before Hon. G. F. Talbot, Judge.The Relators, Dooley and Smith, were represented by Geo. S. Sawyer Esq. as Counsel, and Respondents by District Attorney F. R. McNamee.
The question was ably handled by counsel on both sides, and never before in this Court has there been made a more thorough and exhaustive examination of the Statutes of Nevada and Reports therein on the issues as was presented to the Court by Counsel. The trial occupied the greater portion of Wednesday and was not submitted to the Court for decision till the afternoon of Thursday. The Relator contended strongly that the Commissioners had no right to re-count the ballots, and that their proceedings in so doing were void, and that Section 2116, New Compiled laws of Nevada was unconstitutional, and if not, was repealed by implication by subsequent enactment in the General Election laws, and that the Commissioners action in re-counting was totally void. The Respondents relied on Section 2116 and showed the Court that the proceedings there under were regular, and that each step was taken by the contesting candidates necessary to give the Commissioners jurisdiction to re-count the votes after the official canvass showed that Dooley and Smith from the abstracts of the votes of the various precincts had received a majority of 10 or less votes. The Court found for the Respondents, that Section 2116 was still the law, that it was not repealed that it was also constitutional and that the Commissioners had a right to re-count all the votes and declare the result, and to order their Clerk to issue the certificate of election as had been done in the premises.Counsel for Relator raised the point that if the Commissioners had a right to re-count the votes, that they could only recount those ballots counted by the various Inspectors of Election, and that in no case could they count votes rejected by Inspectors of Election or throw out votes counted by the Inspectors of Election. The Court held that the Commissioners acted as a reviewing Board, and had a right to count all ballots, whether rejected or not, and that to limit the Board of Commissioners in their recount to the ballots counted by the Inspectors only would defeat the object of the law.
It was stipulated by Counsel; that the proceedings, on behalf of Smith should abide the result of the Dooley proceedings, and that all evidence, exhibits, and objections would be considered in and before the Court.
Before rendering the decision, the Court complimented the respective Counsel for the able manner in which they presented their respective contentions, and in the thorough researches of the laws and statutes bearing upon the points in issue.
The Court ordered that the Writ of Mandamus be denied in each case and that the Respondents recover their costs.Trib is a clean, convenient, economical, mild yet powerful and most effective liniment for sprains and Legislative Clerkship.

As the time for the meeting of the legislature draws near it is becoming evident that there are a considerable number of people who are anxious to secure clerkships in one of the two houses at Carson this winter. There are about twelve positions in each house to be filled as follows: Senate—Secretary, assistant secretary, sergeant-at-arms, minute clerk, journal clerk, engrossing clerk, enrolling clerk, copying clerk, committee clerk, messenger, page and porter.
House—Same.
The compensation of these attaches ranges from $7 to $3 per day.

As Bierce Views Nevada.

The following, which appeared in a recent issue of the New York Journal; is a literary gem from the pen of the noted journalist, Ambrose Bierce:"In the last decade the population of Nevada has fallen off more than 3,000, but Nevada is still populous enough to have a store, a blacksmith shop, a watering trough, two United States Senators (not very good ones) and brilliant prospects behind it.
Its exports last year were three potatoes hurled across the State line at a California orator denouncing sin.
The balance of trade has always been in favor of Nevada, which buys nothing abroad and sells offices to non-residents only. The capital is Carson Cross Roads, but the Governor lives in Arizona for his health, and the Legislature meets in the office of the Central Pacific railway in San Francisco. Nevada is sometimes called 'the Battle-born State,' because it slipped into the Union when everybody was watching Pickett's charge at Gettysburg. At that time all the inhabitants, it was said, could have sat in the shade of a single tree, but there was no tree. Now there are two.Dave Keel and Joe Davis of Pan-
